Boston, Mass. Oct. 5.—Three straight victories over New York put the Red Sox in such a cooky frame of mind that they felt like tackling any old thing that came along to-day. McAleer's Nationals were unfortunate enough to drift in at just the wrong time and they had to pay the penalty by tamely submitting to the thorough trouncing of 11 to 2.

Poor Tom Hughes was the chief victim All the long one seemed to have was plenty of courage, an appetite, and a wide sweeping ball that the street de-partment ought to make an effort to partment ought to make an error to secure. Said sweeper swept everything but the home plate, at which poor Tom conscientiously aimed. But when Tom tried to vary things by shooting it over the Red. Sox batters wafted the pellet to the tall timbers and sent the discouraged outfielders in frantic and bitter pursuit.

The locals gave Hughes a very ception, which may have aided in taking the bitter sting out of the atmos phere. It didn't help Manager McAleer's feelings, however, and, after standing for four innings the big fellow's free passes and failures to fool, Manager Jim scuttled from the grand stand, where he had been shivering, and suggested an immediate change. The change was for the better, and, as Hughes was dericked in favor of Becker in the fifth, the game was concluded before darkness.

Tom's long sult was free passes. He gave six during the four innings that he worked. He forced in two men during the fifth when the bases were choked, and this breach of pitching etiquette was what really induced McAleer to come

Every man in the Boston line-up got at least one safe hit. Yerkes got three and speaker and Hendricksen two each. Every man but Collins coved a run and the only season that Ray didn't was because a splendid throw by Clyde Milan cut him off at the plate when he was trying to score from second.

sitian cut him off at the plate when he was trying to score from second.

Boston scored four runs on three hits to the opening inning, a fumble by Control of the second, with a base on balls thrown in paved the way for two more tallies, and the crowning point in Hughes' disaster came in the fourth.

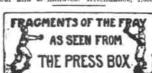

Speaker opened this inning by tripling to right D. Lewis scored him on an infeld stack.

Speaker opened this inning by tripling to right. D. Lewis scored him on an infield single. Engle fanned, but J. Lewis hit safely, and a wild pitch moved both runners along. Bradley fanned, but Williams, Collins, and Hendricksen drew successive pusses, two being forced in Yerkes singled are scored Williams, but Collins was nuited at the plate by Milan's throw. But three hits, two of them scratches, were made off Becker.

Jimmie McAleer was busy all day trying to evade interviewers. Boston fans are anxious to ascertain McAleer's exact status in the Boston club.

It is rumored that Trainer Quirk will come to the Boston team, displacing Doc Green, who has been here since John I. Taylor secured the club.

The one run that Boston made off Becker in the sixth was the result of a stupid play by Conroy. With two men out and a man on second, Hendrichsen hit to Coursey. All that the Widow had to do was to touch Bradley coming down to do was to touch Bradley coming down the lise. Instead he throw over to first in a vain effort to get the speedy Hendrichsen. New Haven. Oct. 5.—A dashing twenty-minute half between the Yale 'varsity and the freshmen to-day furnished a variation from the football routine. The freshmen proved themselves one of the strongest class teams which have entered Yale in years by holding the regulars to a single score.

'Anderson, the hunky ex-Wisconsiner, crossed the goal line with the only score in the feether, Whest, Murray, Markie, Devin, Sarrike hi-Maxwell, Devin Judy-Daubert (unashed) the football across with a smashing five-yard line plunge.

During the day's practice, Head Coach Jack Field dislocated his shoulder, which was severely injured last year, but he

The deposed star, however, more than held his own with the regular men. He worked the forward pass often and got away with some successful tosses, averaging about twenty-five yards gain each time. The work of Gardiner at the right tackle was of a startling nature. Should this chap keep up his sterling performances he looks good for an all-American tackle position.	Extern 20
